

La Rhune

Region: Aquitaine Sleeps: 8

Overview

This amazing villa lies at the foot of the Pyrenees and overlooks the imposing La Rhune mountain.

Accommodating 8 guests and spread over two floors, the property stands out for its elegant yet modern interior design. The huge windows and the access to two terraces enable the lucky holidaymakers to marvel at the stunning landscapes from almost every corner of the house.

On warm sunny days, a roman style pool is at guests disposal for refreshing dips and some relaxing sunbathing. On top of it all, one of the covered terraces features a very handy plancha-style barbecue, ideal for delicious al-fresco dining.

Location & Local Information

The villa is very well located in the heart of the Pyrenees-Atlantiques department, in the renowned Aquitan region in South of France.

In between the Atlantic Ocean and western Pyrenees is St. Jean de Luz, a fishing town with a lovely beach and beautiful 15th century architecture. The main historical building is the basque church of Saint John the Baptist, located in the central square and surrounded by a number of excellent restaurants and interesting shops. A local market takes place every Tuesday, Friday and Saturday.

The region offers an extended range of outdoor activities, such as hiking, horse-back riding, fishing, cycling, canoeing and many others.

Golf and surf lovers cannot miss the chance to visit Biarritz, one of the most popular destinations in France. The city's unique personality stems from the eclectic mix of the French, Spanish and Basque cultures.

Famous for its majestic beaches, luxury boutiques, excellent gastronomy and exciting nightlife, Biarritz is absolutely worth a visit.
